SUPERMOM: Christie Brinkley has closed on her North Haven home for "just under" the $17.99 million asking price, according to listing broker Steve Mandile of Douglas Elliman.

Steven Brillenbach from Corcoran represented the buyer.

The Sag Harbor home has been on the market since January 2017, when it was priced at $25 million. Brinkley bought it in 2008 for $7.15 million.

The 5,500-sq-ft property at 1 Fabyan Road was built in 1940 and still has period details such as a returned front entrance and several fireplaces.

The Connecticut home sits on 8.5 acres that abut and offer 207 ft of private beach. Inside, there are marble living and dining areas, a study, mud room, five bedrooms and 5.5 baths.

Brinkley also has plans to sell her 20-acre Trussardi compound and has it listed with Mandile, too.

Businessman Arthur Becker, the former CEO of Navitell and Zink and now a burgeoning artist, has listed another of his Sullivan Street townhouses for $12.5 million — weeks after selling the one next door for $12.3 million.

Becker is an investor in the property designed by Gary Terepakos and developed by Property Markets Group and Madison Equities. He got three adjacent townhouses in exchange for his stake in the condominium in 2016.

Prime Manhattan Residential president Robert Dankner sold one townhouse earlier this month for $12.3 million.

Becker also owns 40 Sullivan Street, on the market since last year with Madeline Hull Elghanayan of Douglas Elliman for $12.95 million.
